Content Descriptions:

The Final Video

The video should be a creatively edited story of your entire wedding day. Therefore, whenever possible, the final video will include the bridal party getting ready, pre-ceremony formals, full ceremony, post ceremony formals, and entire reception (until the Bride and Groom depart). The content of the final video can vary based on a number of factors such as the particular package chosen, additional services, and, obviously, any departure from the days planned activities. However, all packages include titles, music, graphics (where applicable), special effects (such as slow motion and black and white video) and movie style ending credits. The final video is usually 60 minutes long but can vary in length.
